

Kyle Guy always seems to take his game to another gear against the best competition.

That was the case this week in New York, where Guy put on a show against the nation's best players at Adidas All-American Camp.

Guy, a Lawrence Central senior-to-be and a strong candidate for Indiana's Mr. Basketball in 2016, averaged 19.8 points per game in five games in New York, on an impressive 38-of-64 (59.4 percent).

Guy had 25 points (11-15 FG), five rebounds in four assists in his first game Wednesday night, and never really cooled off. He closed the week with 24 points on 7-of-13 shooting on Friday. Guy had 14 points in Thursday night's game at the historic Rucker Park.

Guy will rejoin his Indiana Elite 2016 team at Cream of the Crop in Los Angeles on Saturday.
