

AAU season has finally arrived in earnest, and Indiana Elite's top teams will be in action this weekend at the first adidas Gauntlet event in Dallas, Texas.

IE's 17U team, 16U team, 15U team, and 16U G3 team will all be in Dallas this weekend against the nation's best competition.

Kyle Guy, a Virginia commit from Lawrence Central, returns to the 17U team after playing up with the group a year ago. Guy was part of the squad that won the adidas Super 64 in Las Vegas last July, and he was a major factor in the tournament. He figures to have a huge year for Mark Adams.

The 16U team, coached by Ryan Owens, played together with EG10 a year ago and had a great showing in Vegas as well. Park Tudor's Jaren Jackson leads the well-balanced club, which also features Mount Vernon's Erick Shepherd and Michael Ertel, Park Tudor's Kobe Webster, Ben Davis' Datrion Harper, Pendleton Heights' Mark Albers, North Central's Emmanuel Little, Mooseheart Academy's Bol Riek and East Chicago's Jermaine Couisnard.

Riek and Couisnard are the only new additions to the roster.

The 15U team, coached by Mike Fox, features Cathedral's Emil Eekiyor, Zionsville's Riley Bertram, McCutcheon's Robert Phinisee, Bloomington South's Phillip King and Chance Coyle, Mt. Carmel's Jackson Marcotte, Indian Creek's Jared DeHart and Mooseheart Academy's Mawich Kachjani.

Finally, the 16U G3 team features Lawrence North's Anthony Cushingberry, Kevin Easley and Ra Kpeda, Ben Davis' Zion Conway, Culver Academy's Ignas Masuilionis, Harshman's Hunter Jackson, Decatur Central's Tyrone Tracy, Terre Haute South's Deavion Washington and Terre Haute West Vigo's Austin Sappingfield.

Our Justin Albers will be in Dallas all weekend and will provide updates, stats and more from the first open period of the spring. Make sure you stay tuned to IndianaElite.com throughout the summer for news on any of our teams or players.
